

All photo take in year 2016

Photo 1 / A 5 year-old boy with autism (Nerve growth disorder) is sitting next to the wall of the house. He has two older brothers with autism too and these 3 brothers have scrawled all the walls by pen and pencil in an unusual way and damaged the other parts of the house. Their father has died due to a heart attack and their mother takes care of them alone. Tehran photo 2 / The bedroom of a family with 3 autism children. They have damaged closets, walls and the furniture in an unusual way. Tehran photo 3 / A woman with schizophrenia with her 12 – year- old boy with autism is standing in her house yard; her husband has divorced and left them because of the woman and the son's disorder. Tehran photo 4 / A 5 year-old boy that has autism in a clinic room is holding and hanging by his therapist on a big ball to play. For a better comfort and a sense of touch and feeling the muscles, his hands massaged with oil and bandaged. Tehran photo 5 / An 8-year-old autism boy behind a bench in the park is eating gravels on the ground unconsciously and involuntary. Some autism children eat junks. His parents were divorced because of his illness and he lives with her grandmother. Tehran photo 6 / A 7-year-old boy that has autism is kissing the horse as the trainer said. Horse riding therapy is one of the ways to improve balance and body parts coordination in movement. The child with autism would become relaxed due to interacting and playing with horse. Tehran photo 7/ A 13 year-old boy with autism , is lying down on the bed in the bedroom; he has thrown the clothes in the closet all over the room. Tehran photo 8 / A 4 year-old girl with autism lies under the rug of the living room. She goes under the rug and stands there during the day and comes out of the other side. This makes her calm. Tehran photo 9/ Some children with autism are sitting in a pool of hot water in the children part of an NGO related to autism. Hydrotherapy is one of the ways of peace and a sense of control and can help to reduce the symptoms of autism. Tehran photo 10/ A 6-year-old boy with autism after hydrotherapy in an NGO center for autism children, is resisting hardly against his therapists to put on his clothes. Tehran

photo 11 / A boy (11) has autism lying in the street. Due to lack of public notification, many people are unaware of this disease and don't have a good understanding of an autism person behavior. Tehran photo 12 / A 13- year- old autism boy is hugged by her sister. She takes care of her brother and teaches various behavioral skills. Tehran

